FRIDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 11.

Borrowed Humor.

AFTER THE THEATRE
Ten dollars. Quite a sum to pay
For one who earns but four a day,
For just a single evening's fun.
It seems so now the thing is done
Three for the carriage, for you know
I never could have asked her to go
With that swell dress—the shade o'er
And strung out your yard or two—
In a plain horse-car. And so nice
He looked, I do not run ge the price
The more for seas down center aisle
And to row back—but right for style.
The curtain rose. How time will pass
While a gaudy crowd in open glass.
The curtain fell. Once more I stood
Outside, and then the thought of food
Itself presented. She says yes,
She is quite hungry. You can guess
That what we ate with just a bit
Of rosy wine to season it,
Used up that other four. Time sped
I took her home. Good night was said.
Then to my own home—no I straight;
And here I sit and mumble.
The cash I had four hours ago
Is gone. I've bought her to show.
Have I regrets for it? Not one.
Twas lovely, but, by Jove, 'twas fun!
